No Time For Aid Ease-up

Be a "Dangerous Gamble" Asserts Connally in Opening Debate

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) warned today it would be "a dangerous gamble" to ease up now in efforts to strengthen the west.

He told the Senate that if the United States and its European allies put their "shoulders to the wheel and push ahead with this program, we can complete it within a relative short period—say, three years or so—and then relax our efforts somewhat."

If we try to stretch it out," he added, "we are taking a dangerous gamble and one that I am not willing to assume the responsibility for."

Connally, chairman of the foreign relations committee, led off debate on the $7,535,000,000 foreign aid bill. His remarks obviously were directed against some senators who have urged further cuts in the bill.

He spoke after Senator Moody (D-Mich.) in a statement, called the amount "too small and too slow."

Connally said war can be avoided only by being prepared to win if war should come.

"The proposed act involved no new questions of basic policy," Connally said. "It is designed to implement the fundamental policy which the Senate had already approved by overwhelming votes on numerous occasions."

Strengthen Allies

"The policy to which I refer is that of strengthening the United States through strengthening our allies. It is the policy that recognizes that the United States cannot stand alone in a hostile world. It is the policy that seeks to promote world peace through helping the free nations of the world make themselves so strong that no aggressor will dare to attack them. It is the policy that seeks to avoid war by being prepared to win it if war should come."

"That is the only way I know of whereby war can be avoided," Moody, a former newspaperman who recently made a flying 7-day trip to Europe, said. "It is no secret that we are not ready to wage a full scale land and air war in Europe."

He added that it will be three years before Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, with whom he talked while in France, would have adequate fighting forces to meet a possible Communist attack.

"Every day we delay is a gamble with atomic catastrophe," Moody said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

Points Out Saving
At the same time, Moody said if Congress is willing to move along at the rearmament pace proposed in the pending bill, it could save $651,800,000 of U. S. dollars by "insisting upon a greater contribution from some of our allies."

Moody said many European nations now are using counterparty funds to build highways, railroad stations and similar improvements. Counterparty funds are those made up of local currencies obtained from sale of U. S. goods and supplies under the Marshall plan and other aid programs. The United States must approve their expenditure.

Moody said Italy, France and many other European nations, including western Germany, could be required to use these counterparty funds to make guns, electric equipment and other military supplies. Backgrounding the debate was a warning by Gen. Omar Bradley that it is "dangerous to try to guess" what Russia will do.

Critical Over Bond Reduction

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) predicted today that Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger of Hawaii will be replaced for reducing the bail of seven Communist suspects arrested in Hawaii.

O'Mahoney, the chairman of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs committee, told a reporter Judge Metzger's reduction of the bail bonds from $75,000 to $5,000 was an "outrageous act."

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif.), a member of the House un-American activities committee, told a reporter he considers the $5,000 bail "very much too low" in view of the disappearance of Communist suspects under similar conditions in New York.

Federal judges, in the territories, unlike those in the continental United States, are appointed for specific, limited terms, not for life.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 29—(AP)—The fifth annual northeast Missouri fair opened yesterday with a record attendance of 5,000 persons. The fair will run through Friday.

Over Fence to Welcome Husband

When the Navy Tanker U.S.S. Kashkaskia arrived in San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 27, someone forgot to unlock the gate so relatives could greet the men. Here Mrs. Laura Leigh, of Hollywood, Calif., scales the fence to greet her husband, Edward Leigh, storekeeper. The navy finally cut the lock when a key was not found. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Vets Call on UN to Help Free Oatis

He And 'Forgotten Man' Are Being Held by Czechs

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars today called on the United Nations to help free William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, and a New Jersey "forgotten man" from prison in Czechoslovakia.

John Hvezda, of Hillside, N. J., was identified by Adrian Grob-Smith of Syracuse, chairman of the VFW national legislative committee, as the "forgotten man."

He said Hvezda has been held in Czechoslovakia since May, 1950, on charges of spying for a foreign government while studying in the Russian satellite country. Oatis also was jailed on spy charges.

A resolution unanimously adopted by the VFW in its annual encampment here also proposed liberation measures ranging from cutting off United States trade with Czechoslovakia to an appeal to the Czech people to overthrow their government.

It also suggested that the United States government impose identical restrictions on Czechoslovakian and other iron curtain correspondents as are imposed on American correspondents in Czechoslovakia.

The resolution, presented by Charles C. Ralls of Seattle, Wash., VFW commander-in-chief, urged the UN to protest "violation of human rights" by the Czech government.

It declared the Czech government violated the spirit of the UN charter by holding and mistreating Oatis and Hvezda and in refusing to reply to United States protests.

In another resolution, asking President Truman to replace Secretary of State Dean Acheson, has been placed before the VFW encampment.

'Chutist Killed Has Sister Here

LEXINGTON, Neb., Aug. 29—(AP)—In view of nearly 4,000 persons, stunt parachutist jumper fell to his death here last night when his chute failed to open.

Killed was Jack Huber, 42. Associates said his home was in Miami, Florida.

Huber's night jump was a feature of the opening day of the Dawson county fair.

Associates said Huber had made more than 2,000 jumps.

Survivors include a sister, Anna Busch, Sedalia, Mo.

Jack Huber, killed in a parachute jump at Lexington, Neb., Tuesday night, was scheduled for a jump at the Missouri State Fair Sunday night as a part of the Joie Chitwood Auto Daredevil thrill show. Huber was grounded in Ohio Sunday evening because of bad weather and was unable to come to Sedalia.

He performed a delayed parachute jump and his stunt was considered among airmen as the most difficult and daring of all air stunts.

September 'Crusade For Freedom' Month

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 29—(AP)—September was designated crusade for freedom month in a proclamation issued today by Gov. Forrest Smith.

The national drive is for the purpose of enrolling millions of Americans in a mass protest against the menace of world Communism. Contributions will be used to expand the radio free Europe program.

Killed as Auto Overtakes

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29—(AP)—Marion McKinnon, 62, laborer of Glencoe, Mo., was killed last night when his automobile overturned into a corn field in St. Louis county.

McKinnon, driving alone, was on Missouri Highway 109.

Tobin Takes a Bitter Slap at 'Slanderers'

Tells 'Vets' That They Should Prove Or Face Court

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin today said "slanderers" in the "privileged sanctuary" of the U. S. Senate should be made to prove their charges or face a libel court.

The founders of the United States, he said, did not intend the Senate to be "a citadel... to hide in from the libel laws."

In a speech before the 52nd national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tobin did not mention any names nor specify the charges he referred to.

But it was evident he meant the accusations by some senators, including Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), that Communists had infiltrated the administration.

Tobin told the veterans that they must "polish up the armor" of democracy to defeat Communism, show the world "we practice the Bill of Rights as well as preach it."

He said some Americans "have shown a tendency to forget" that the Bill of Rights provides for a fair trial. He continued:

"A fair trial is a trial in a court room, not in a political speech or in a press conference. And unless a man is to be given a fair trial in a courtroom, unless his accusers are prepared to supply concrete evidence against him, he ought not to be made the butt of irresponsible slander, particularly from the privileged sanctuary of the Senate."

Should Have Evidence
"... If a man has charges to make against one of his countrymen, he ought to be prepared to stand behind them and produce the evidence to prove them."

If he makes slanderous charges against his countrymen, he ought to be made to either prove them or bear the consequences in a libel court, or his speech is part of a conspiracy to overthrow the government."

Another "smudge" on democracy's armor, Tobin said, is the problem of racial and religious discrimination. "There is no more powerful weapon in the arsenal of Communist propaganda than the charges of discrimination in the United States," he continued.

Tobin said "tremendous progress" has been made, but "we must step up our efforts to eliminate the problem that has been the excuse for the lies" put out by the Reds to "impress" the world, particularly the African and the Asiatic peoples.

While armaments will stop the Communist aggression, Tobin said, only the untarnished idea of democracy will defeat the idea of communism, which "you can't destroy... with guns."

"This is the great battle that cannot be fought on a battlefield," (Please turn to Page 6, Column 6)

Hughes Delays Plane Takeoff

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29—(AP)—Howard Hughes' $19,000,000 8-engine plywood plane, dubbed the "flying lumberyard," will not be launched Sept. 1 as scheduled, and the takeoff may be delayed as much as three months.

A spokesman for Hughes says the delay has the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which helped finance the building of the wooden monster.

The largest airplane ever built was to be launched Saturday under terms of the contract with the RFC, but the Hughes spokesman blamed "problems concerning the power plants (24,000 horsepower altogether) which have arisen at the last minute." He would not amplify the explanation.

"We have a number of wives airborne since Hughes took it off the water in a taxiing test several years ago."

McMahon For Use of the A-bomb if Soviet Invades

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Winston Churchill was quoted as telling U. S. Senators visiting in Europe recently that the world situation hinges on how many atomic bombs the Russians have.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) told of the discussion in closed-door testimony on a new foreign aid bill, made public today.

McMahon said Senator Green (D-R.I.) asked Churchill, wartime prime minister of England, "what he thought of the present outlook on things?"

Churchill "looked around what seemed to be three minutes—probably 30 seconds—and puffed on his cigar," McMahon related, and then finally said:

"How many atomic bombs have they got?"

McMahon, who had said earlier in the testimony that the Russians have a "growing stockpile of atomic weapons," last night advocated that A-bombs be used against the Soviet if she invades western Europe.

Appearing on the NBC television program "Meet The Press," McMahon said in the event of Russian aggression this country should strike back with every available weapon. In response to a question, he said that "certainly does" include atomic bombs.

"What are we making them for if not for use against people who try to tear down our civilization?" he asked.

McMahon, who is chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy committee, gave an inconclusive answer when asked whether atomic bombs are available in Europe for use by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic army.

"A stockpile of weapons is in position, I feel sure, to rebut the Russians if and when aggression should come," McMahon said.

"I feel sure our stockpile of weapons is ready—if and when needed. It is no secret that we have been experimenting at great length to bring into existence tactical weapons which promise so much as an offset to the mass troops of the Soviet Union."

Fate of Truce Talks Directly Up To Reds

Over Hundred For Farm Tour

More than one hundred tickets have been sold for the farm tour sponsored by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce for Sedalia business men to be held Thursday evening.

The farm to be toured is that of Tom Ream north of Sedalia. Cars will leave the Chamber of Commerce office promptly at 5:30 o'clock. The following directions are for those who may not be able to start from the Chamber of Commerce at that time: North on Highway 65 two and three-fourths miles beyond Muddy Creek, turn east to the first cross road and go a mile and three-fourths.

For those who have no transportation there will be cars at the Chamber of Commerce office. The tour will end with a chicken dinner served by the Longwood Extension club.

Back Down or Break Off Is Alternative by Ridgway Edict

By Don Huth
TOKYO, Aug. 29—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway put it squarely up to the Communists today to decide the fate of Korean war truce talks.

The United Nations commander curtly refused to re-investigate the alleged Kaesong bombing incident. But he said the allies would resume armistice negotiations whenever the Reds are ready to end their "unjustifiable delay" of the conference.

The general view here was that Ridgway's 116-word message to the top Communist commanders left them almost no alternatives but to back down or break off the disrupted conferences completely.

Ridgway did not even mention the Communist demand that he admit a U.N. plane bombed the truce site. He has called the whole incident a fraud.

His message to the North Korean premier, Kim Il Sung, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai dealt only with their request that he send his liaison officers back to Kaesong to look at new evidence.

"A reinvestigation after this lapse of time," Ridgway said, "could serve no purpose other than to continue this unjustifiable delay in the armistice negotiations."

The U. N. commander observed that during the original investigation a few hours after the asserted bombing the night of Aug. 22, a Red liaison officer "specifically refused the requests of my liaison officer to continue the investigation during daylight and to leave all of the alleged evidence in place."

Makes Contradiction
The U. N. command has said this all along. It was a flat contradiction of a statement in the message from Kim and Peng to which Ridgway was replying.

The Red generals said "We did not on the night of the 22nd reject your making of the investigation in daylight."

Peiping radio asserted Wednesday U. N. liaison officers agreed to return to Kaesong the next day with Allied newsmen for further examination. The broadcast, attributed to two Communist newsmen who were in Kaesong, continued:

"The agreed arrangement, we were told, was that (U. N. liaison officer Col. A. J.) Kinney would telephone and say what time he was coming."

Ridgway note told the Reds "When you are prepared" to resume truce talks "I will direct my representatives to meet with yours, with a view to seeking a reasonable armistice agreement."

The Reds broke off the deadlocked negotiations last Thursday because of the asserted bombing incident.

A public information office released from Ridgway's headquarters, issued nine hours after his note was delivered to the Reds, said:

"It has been the basic and continuing concern" of the U. N. command "that the military armistice conference at Kaesong should make rapid progress toward a cessation of bloodshed in Korea and an honorable armistice."

"The United Nations command continues to give the most serious consideration to report of violations of agreements by either side. It is convinced, however, that nothing can be gained through further investigation of the alleged incident x x x other than prolongation of the suspension of the meeting."

The public information office said "The United Nations command already has carried out a detailed investigation of the alleged incident."

Polish Refugee to Be Fair Queen

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—A Polish refugee will be the queen of the 1951 state fair. She is Mary Suszynska, blonde, blue-eyed and 17.

Miss Suszynska, daughter of a Weedsport farmer, was picked yesterday from among 30 contestants to reign over the state's 105th agricultural and industrial exposition, opening here Saturday.

Miss Suszynska came to the United States from Poland with her parents five years ago. She is now a junior in Weedsport Central school.

After the fair, the queen, who speaks with a slight Polish accent, and a companion will receive a six-day, expense-paid trip to Bermuda.

The Language of Strength

That's Only Language Russia Respects, he Declares; 'It's Strength That Works; Let's Work For Strength'

By Charles E. Wilson
Director of Defense Mobilization
Written for NEA Service

WASHINGTON — The purpose of defense mobilization is to prevent a third world war. If that simple statement is kept uppermost in the minds of the American people, it will give meaning and perspective to the public issues they are now being called to judge.

It is very costly to support an armed force of nearly 3,500,000 men; to supply other free nations with weapons; to build up an ade-

Europe and a large part of Asia; it has attempted political infiltration of Italy and France; it has engaged in guerrilla warfare in Greece, Malaya and Indo-China; it has attempted to blockade Berlin; finally, the Kremlin inspired the bloody conflict in Korea.

That is why, last December, the President felt it necessary to proclaim the existence of a national emergency. That is why the nation, in the interest of its own safety and that of other free nations, has embarked on a vast program of national preparedness. That is why we are building America's might.

Experience has shown in the last six years that the only language the Kremlin respects is the language of strength. The Kremlin is deaf to the appeals of diplomacy, to moral force, to good will, understanding and the ideal of human brotherhood. But, as Kree has proved, the Kremlin does respond to force. So a good slogan for these times is: "It's strength that works, let's work for strength."

Therein lies humanity's best hope to avert the agony and horror of a third world war—an atomic war which could well destroy civilization and return the earth to barbarism. Therein lies the reason why Americans should accept cheerfully the burdens and sacrifices that are being caused by defense mobilization.

Agency For Defense Needs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(P)—President Truman Tuesday created a new defense materials procurement agency with authority to buy strategic and critical materials at home and abroad.

He appointed Jess Larson, now administrator of general services, to head the new agency, created under authority of the new Defense Production act.

In an executive order, the President gave the new agency authority to:

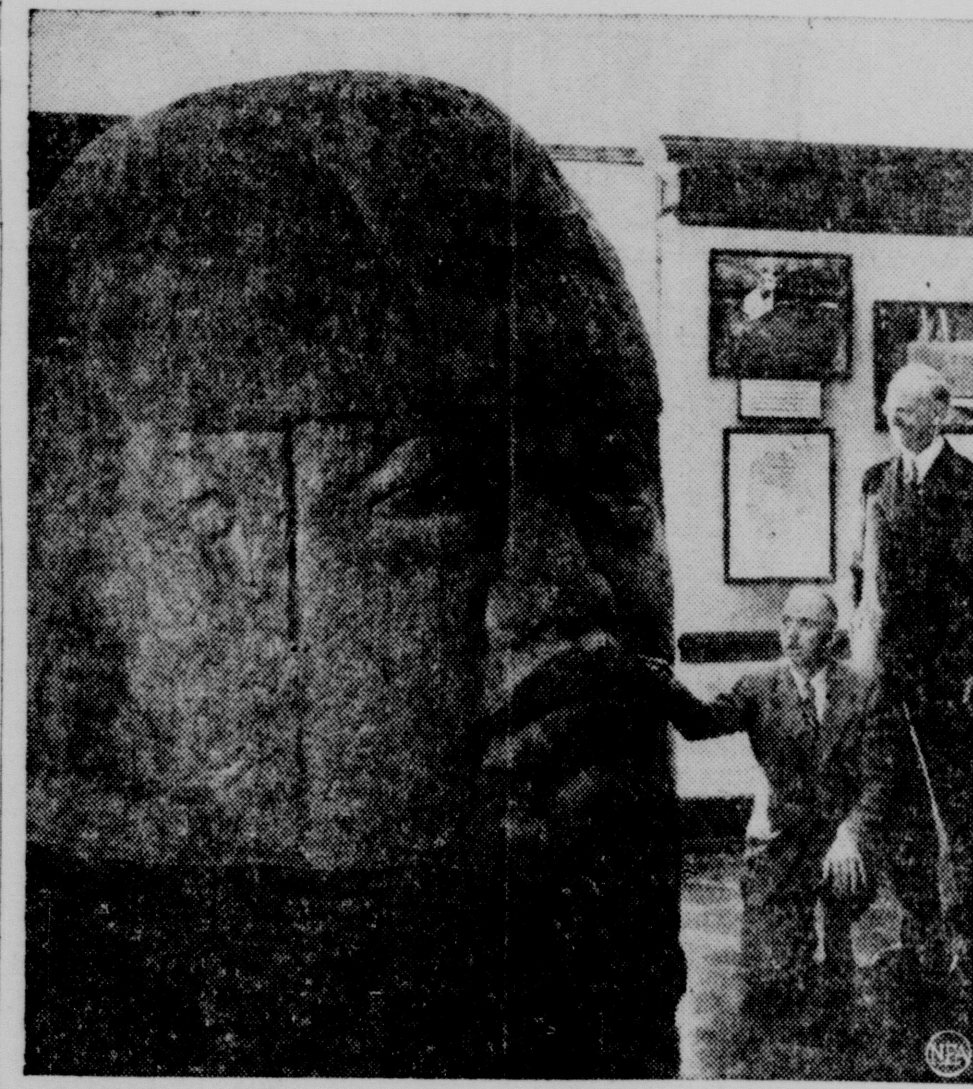

1. Purchase and make commitments for metals, minerals, and other materials needed for the defense production program.
2. Encourage the exploration, development, and mining of critical and strategic minerals and metals.
3. Make subsidy payments if necessary to maintain essential production.
4. Serve as a guaranteeing agency in connection with the financing of production and deliveries or services under government contracts.
5. Install additional equipment, facilities, processes and improvements in government-owned and private plants, factories and facilities.

The new agency is subject to direction, control and coordination by the defense mobilization director, Charles E. Wilson.

Doubts Cost of Government Drop

SIKESTON, Mo., Aug. 29.—(P)—"In my opinion the cost of government is never coming down."

That's what Gov. Forrest Smith told Sikeston Rotary club Tuesday night.

"The reason I make that statement," he added, "is that you people will not let the cost of government be reduced."

You are constantly demanding from the various governmental agencies either an expansion of present governmental services xxx or an additional governmental service.

"An every time an old service is expanded or enlarged, or a new service added, it requires additional revenue."

The governor said it's up to the taxpayers to decide whether taxes stay high or whether governmental service should be cut down.

Similar views have been expressed lately by several legislators. They have hinted taxes might have to be increased to meet mounting governmental costs.

You never tried a fine car like This One

YOU've a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also exclusively Buick's—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflo® Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Fights Revoking Of His Discharge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 29.—(P)—Lee Austin Dubes is waging a federal court fight to prevent the air force from revoking his discharge and putting him back in uniform for an other year. Dubes was discharged as a Staff Sergeant from the air force at Tinker base here last Friday. But the air force quickly claimed he was issued the discharge by mistake. Dubes' attorneys said the certificate is invalid and ordered him to report back. Dubes refused to return and instead went into federal court where Judge Edgar S. Vaughn signed a temporary restraining order yesterday telling Maj. Gen. Fred S. Borum, Tinker commander, to keep hands off. Dubes' petition said military police threatened to arrest him and charge him with being absent without leave. Judge Vaughn ordered a hearing Friday to determine whether Dubes is a civilian or an airman. Military authorities explained the mixup is over automatic one-year extension of enlistments imposed by the Korean war. Dubes enlisted at Fort Sheridan, Ill., Aug. 22, 1947. At the end of his three years, Dubes took a voluntary one-year extension to attend a 14-week control tower school. His one-year extension ended last week and the personnel officer issued him a discharge. But that same day higher officers contended he should serve another year in addition and asked him to give the discharge back. Dubes, 23, is a native of Detroit, Mich.

Says Olson Paid Commissions

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—(P)—A former alcohol tax supervisor for New York City received $5,500 in commissions from American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis for printing business, he obtained for the firm in 1949-50, a company officer said today. He was referring to James B. E. Olson who resigned the New York post last Friday. American Lithofold got $565,000 in loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation after William M. Boyle, Jr., Democratic national chairman, was put on the company payroll. Boyle maintains he had nothing to do with the loans. Olson's relations with the firm were disclosed by Homer W. Stanhope, company controller. He told reporters that Olson was one of a large number of "independent agents" hired by the company in various cities to get business. He said he had not known Olson was a federal officer, explaining that Olson had been hired by the firm's New York office. Company records here show that Olson received $3,000 in commissions in February, March, April and December of 1949 and $2,500 from September through November, 1950. ### White Wins Primary Race

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 29.—(P)—Former Gov. Hugh White today won his second bid for governor of Mississippi on the basis of unofficial but nearly complete returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary. The 70-year-old industrialist and lumberman from Columbia by mid-morning had piled up a 9,536 lead over his 35-year-old opponent, Paul B. Johnson, Jr., Hattiesburg attorney. The count, from 1,707 of the state's 1,782 precincts, gave: White 191,677. Johnson 181,931. The missing 75 boxes were in 17 counties. In those Johnson was leading in 10 and White in the remaining seven. With his victory White became the second man in Mississippi history to win election twice to the state's highest office. The first was the late Sen. Theo. (The Man) Bilbo, who served from 1916 to 1920 and 1928 to 1932. White served as chief executive from 1936 to 1940 after defeating his present opponent's father in a second primary campaign in 1935. White's victory gave him the Democratic nomination, which is equivalent to election in this one-party state. Johnson, half white's age and also making his second bid for the office, his father held from 1940 until his death in late 1943, suffered his third state defeat. He lost to Gov. Fielding L. Wright in 1947 when Wright swept to a first primary victory over four foes, and three months later finished fourth in a bid to fill Bilbo's unexpired term in the U.S. Senate after Bilbo died.

Meet of Women Democrats

The Pettis County Women's Democrat Club met Monday night at the American Legion hall for a short business meeting. Delegates and alternates for the state convention which will be held in Jefferson City in October 29 were elected as follows: Delegates, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. R. T. Phelan and Mrs. W. C. Cramer and alternates Mrs. R. L. Weinrich, Mrs. John Devine and Mrs. Betty Belt. Hostesses for the evening were Miss Anna King, chairman; Mrs. Rex Warren, Mrs. Claude Brown, Mrs. J. H. Perdue and Mrs. Jack Williams. On September 12 Mrs. Jerry Trotter will entertain members of the club in her home.

Actor Dies in Emotion Stress

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—(P)—Actor Robert Walker, 32, who zoomed to fame during World War II in "shy guy" movie roles, died last night at his home while undergoing treatment for an emotional disturbance. Dr. Frederick J. Hacker, a psychiatrist who said he had been treating Walker for 18 months, was summoned by the actor last evening. The doctor said he talked to Walker for two hours, then called Dr. Sidney Silver, another psychiatrist, to administer a sedative. Dr. Hacker said the sedative (an injection of sodium amytal) had been given Walker many times for emotional disturbances and with good results. However, this time the actor lapsed into a coma, the psychiatrist said, and developed respiratory failure. An inhalator squad was called but failed to revive him. The physician added that Walker's former wife, actress Jennifer Jones, and now the wife of producer David O. Selznick, was notified and said she is flying here from New York. The two young sons of Walker and Miss Jones have been spending the summer with the actor.

Walker had been in films eight years. Recently he made a successful comeback in pictures after a lengthy illness. Walker was treated at the Menninger clinic, Topeka, Kas., for a nervous disorder in 1948. Walker's films included "See, Here, Private Hargrove," "Since You Went Away," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," "The Clock," and "Till the Clouds Roll By."

Resume Lobby Probe Tuesday

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 29.—(P)—U. G. Lewellen, manager of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association, last night demanded a full investigation of a statement made by Leif Sverdrup, St. Louis bridge and highway engineer. Sverdrup said Monday he turned down an offer of $10,000 to sign and support a truckers' report that their big vehicles do no more highway damage than automobiles. "The statement obviously was designed and timed to damage the reputation of the trucking industry while truck legislation is pending," Lewellen said. "Either the charge is true, or it is not. I don't believe any truckers or their authorized representatives made any such offer at any time to Mr. Sverdrup." Lewellen made his comments in a letter to Rep. Delton L. Houchens (D) of Henry county. Houchens, chairman of the House Lobby Investigating committee, had announced earlier yesterday that the Sverdrup disclosure will bring about a re-opening of his committee's probe. The hearing is set tentatively for next Tuesday.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Piecemeal Flood Control Must End in the USA

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Dr. Hugh Bennett, chief of the department of agriculture's soil conservation service.)

Dr. Hugh Bennett

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — The recent midwestern floods have again shown with stark reality that the day of piecemeal flood control must end. Truly effective flood control must protect the millions of farmers on the land and in the small creek bottoms as well as our great cities and major river valleys.

In those July floods we had graphic proof that no single method of flood control can do the whole, watershed-wide job. We saw how some of our best soils became so saturated with the rains of May and June that even the pastures could absorb little more. Even so, the water-holding capacity of the soil helped moderate the effects of the run-off. Likewise, we saw how downstream levees high enough to have withstood the largest previous floods, were overtopped by this super-flood of July.

We are confronted with one inescapable conclusion: Our efforts to prevent and control flood damages, wherever they occur, must begin where the rains first hit the earth and must not end until the flood water reaches the ocean.

By observing this principle, we can at the same time provide protection to every part of the watershed, both downstream and upstream. We not only can bring the water under better control but we also can reduce the silt carried by flood waters. In many cases silt is more destructive to property than water itself.

Most of this silt consists of eroded soil, washed out of upstream farms and over grazed pastures. Great quantities of it are laid down on fertile bottomland. It destroys crops and, in case of frequent sandy deposits, lowers the productivity of the land for generations to come.

There was tremendous destruction in the upper watersheds during the midwestern floods. Along the headwater streams, above control works have been recommended, the flood damage exceeded 100 million dollars. Above the flooded valleys, the storm caused an estimated 110 million dollars of crop loss.

It has been estimated that about 75 per cent of the over-all flood damage in the country, year in and year out, occurs back along the lesser tributary streams above the bottomlands of the major channels. In the long run, however, the greatest damage from these tremendous storms is the erosion that takes place on the upland farms. Seldom do the costly effects of erosion on these upland slopes make the headlines of our newspapers.

Although it is questionable whether dollars and cents can express the true value of the millions of tons of irreplaceable topsoil lost, the decreased productivity of these eroded upland farms is estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

These figures do not take into account other downstream damages, such as deposition in river channels, reservoirs, wells and drainage ditches. What we have read about flood damage has related largely to city property, bridges and highways. And this was terrible indeed. Still, much of this damage can be repaired. But we can do little to remove the layers of infertile sand spread deeply over thousands of acres of productive bottomlands. We can't haul back into eroded fields the topsoil that has been carried into the Gulf of Mexico.

Experience has proved that we can come pretty close to controlling floods on the small tributary streams. With good conservation measures and upstream retaining structures, the small streams will not overflow so destructively even when we get rains like those in the midwest. But that part of the water which reaches the larger streams must be controlled by dams, levees and other measures.

At present, the run-off from upland farms in small watersheds has not been properly controlled because farmers cannot get all the technically trained help they want and need to do the soil and water conservation job adequately on their own farms. And funds are not generally available for construction of small upstream dams and channel improvements.

So, in the recent floods in Kansas, Missouri, and neighboring states, water went into the small streams much faster than it would if we had a watershed program for flood control.

If we ignore the little creeks of the upper valleys and the fields and pastures that feed these "little waters," we will have only a partial program of flood control. But we are not going to ignore these upper watersheds. The big job is still ahead of us, but we are already working on thousands of farms, and floods have already been controlled or greatly minimized along many creeks.

Conservation measures not only are putting more of the rainfall into the reservoir of the soil but are increasing per-acre yields. The water therefore gets into the streams more slowly. We can further retard this water by small dams and waterway improvements in the upper watersheds. These "upstream engineering" methods together with conservation work in fields and pastures not only will support and protect flood control measures installed along our major waterways.

The Doctor Says— Birth of Twins Usually Does Not Follow Definite Pattern

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Recently a reader wrote that her paternal grandmother had three or four sets of twins. Then her two daughters and one son's wife had twins, but none of their children had any (which was the writer's generation). Now she says one of her cousin's children has had twins, and wants to know whether it skips a generation.

Twins do seem to run in families to some extent, but so far as I know, there is no special reason to feel that there is any skipping of generations involved. It is also interesting that the likelihood of a confinement resulting in multiple births depends on other factors.

It seems that the chances of having multiple births increases with the age of the mother at least up until about the age of 35 to 39. Also, there is a greater likelihood of twins or other multiple births among colored than among white mothers.

For the population in general, twins are born once in about every 90 confinements. One does not see quite so many twins walking around as one would expect from these figures, however, since the infant mortality of twins is somewhat greater than that in a single birth.

Twins are by far the most common multiple births; triplets occur only about once in every 9400 confinements and quadruplets once in about 620,000. One can expect quadruplets to be born only about once in 57,000,000 confinements.

There are two kinds of twins. Fraternal twins are the result of the fertilization of two eggs. Such twins may be the same or of opposite sex. Except for having identical birthdays, they may be as different from each other as any other brother or sisters.

Identical twins are the result of the fertilization of a single egg which later divides. Identical twins are always of the same sex and are much alike in both physical and mental characteristics. There are apparently about one-fourth as many identical twins as fraternal twins.

Twins are apparently neither superior or inferior to other people. The mental and physical development of identical twins is very much alike. Fraternal or non-identical twins, on the other hand, tend to become more different in mental traits as they grow older.

The study of the physical and mental traits of twins, triplets, quadruplets and quintuplets has shed a great deal of light on human inheritance as well as being a matter of personal interest to thousands.

Read This and Rate Yourself On Your Feminine Subtlety

Lots of women manage their husbands to the extent of getting their own way in important matters. But here are many degrees of subtlety in the way in which they "manage."

At the bottom of the list is the woman who announces flat-footedly that she wants this or that—and doesn't give her husband a

"Murder" in Quotes

by Julius Long
COPY, 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

EARNIE BERMAN said nothing. Babe Tussig, a hand over the bandage on his neck, was also silent. Both looked intensely satisfied.

"I've already talked to the blonde girl," Sheriff Em Souders said. "Of course she says she told you to come here. Glad you admit it. One thing more we won't have to prove. Any other confession you'd like to make?"

I thought I had better not say anything more till I had talked to my lawyer. "Can I phone Gene Sawyer?"

"Plenty of time for that," said the sheriff. "Plenty of time." He got a pair of handcuffs from his belt and slipped one bracelet over my right wrist. He slipped the other over his own left wrist and handed the key to his deputy. All during the time I had been in custody charged with Charlie Berman's murder, the sheriff had never used the cuffs.

This time I was in for it. Everybody believed me a killer. That other time they had excused me. This time they wouldn't. It's not the thing, to stab a pretty girl.

"Let's go," said the sheriff, as if I had anything to do with it. At the jail he let me call Gene. I gave Gene the bad news. I could hear him catch his breath over the phone. "I'll be right over."

The sheriff let us talk in the women's quarters, which happened to be vacant. He looked around carefully. I asked: "What's the idea?"

"I'm looking for a bug. So far as I know, they have none."

"Well, you can stop looking. The sheriff can listen to anything I have to say. I didn't kill her." "Then who did?"

On the idea that her course of action was the wise or even the only one.

Even This Isn't Tops
Then there is the woman who manages much more subtly than any of these. She gets an idea and sells it to her husband so gradually that he eventually thinks it was his own. Such a woman is perfectly content to let him think so—just as long as things work out the way she wanted them to.

But that's not the height of feminine subtlety. The woman who is at the top is the one who "manages" her husband so well that he has to sell HER on what she wanted in the first place.

If you don't believe that can be done, next time you hear a man apparently trying to sell his wife on the idea of a long vacation trip, an addition to the house, or whatever, against her easily answered protests—sneak a glance at the satisfied look on the face of the wife.

She has not only succeeded in selling an idea to her husband but did it so cleverly he is trying to sell it back to her. That's the peak of feminine management. For then if the idea turns out to be a dud, the little woman can always say: "Well, you know I had my doubts about it all along."

"Earnie Berman, of course." I told him about Cleo's visit and the fight that followed when Earnie and Babe got there. Gene didn't like it. He paced the floor, his tall frame gaunt with its slightly stooped shoulders.

"So you stabbed Tussig! That makes it bad. It set a precedent for stabbing the girl!"

"But why should I stab her? She knew I was innocent. She was the one person who did!"

"I wish you had phoned me after she left. I might have been able to do something with her."

"My phone service has been cut off. I hadn't slept much for nights. I took a nap and then drove to Queen Point."

"Why there of all places?"

"You had given me hope that I might get the resort back. For the first time I cared to see what the Berman boys had done with it."

"Well, you set yourself up for a frame—if it was a frame. Don't lie to your own lawyer, Jimmer. Did you do it? If you tell me the truth I may have a chance to get you off."

I made a wry face. "I told you the truth that other time. You didn't believe me. I'm telling you the truth this time, and again you don't believe me!"

"But Jimmer—"

"Save it! If you can't see that Earnie Berman is framing me out of spite, that he killed Cleo because she talked to me, then you can't appreciate the obvious!"

GENE drew up his tall frame so that it no longer appeared to have a stoop. "Jimmer, why don't you stop insulting my intelligence? The girl, Cleo talked, all right, the way you said she did. But she didn't talk enough, and you blew your top. Don't try to kid your lawyer about what happened. To quote Samuel Butler, you're about as subtle as a dove and as innocent as a serpent!"

"Quotes! First Maurio, now Butler! It's a wonder you aren't telling me that I killed that girl because everybody thinking I was a killer made me one!"

Gene made a wry face. "No, I'll grant that public opinion can't work that fast. But you're hooked this time, Jimmer. The best I can hope to get for you is a life sentence with a possible parole in ten to twenty years. In the meanwhile I'll get your property back. You can sell it and have a nest-egg when you get out."

I LAUGHED bitterly. Then Gene rapped on the steel door, and it was opened by a deputy sheriff. Gene stalked out, not even saying goodbye.

The deputy took me down to the bullpen. Everybody there was waiting. Somehow they had found out about my trouble.

Hal Hoyer said: "I hear you stabbed a girl. How about that, Jimmer?"

I took Hal to a back cell and told him my story. I was "trying it out on the dog." I watched him closely. He wasn't having any. But he said:

"I still wish you luck, and I think a lot of people will. It all ties in with Charlie Berman stealing your lease. And I still wish I was in your shoes. If you could change places with me, you'd be going out of here a minute after midnight. That's when my time's up. Outside, you might be able to get a line on something that would help you."

I stared at him. For the first time I realized that he was about my size. At midnight the bullpen lights were doused. If I wore Hal's clothes a deputy would mistake me for him until I was out in the jail's office.

Hal read my mind. He held out his hand. "It's a deal, Jimmer. I'm in here so much it won't matter if they keep me for helping you."

JAPAN: Rebirth of a Nation

Japan's oldest enemy is starvation. Although the Japanese are skillful farmers of their pathetically small fields and rice paddies, less than 19 per cent of the country's 91,000,000 acres can be cultivated. In 1945, bad weather, fertilizer shortages and the ravages of war had left the Japanese farmer face to face with his age-old foe.

With plant insects and diseases reducing Japan's crops by at least 12 per cent annually, one of SCAP's first jobs was to promote the widespread use of insecticide dusts and aerosols. The timely importation of fertilizer and the development of a seed improvement program have also paid big production dividends.

Until SCAP stepped into the farm picture, spoilage ranked high on the empire's list of Public Enemies. Lacking refrigeration facilities, whole carloads of potatoes often rotted in transit. SCAP licked the problem by modernizing ancient methods of drying, pickling and salting vegetables, and constructing rodent-proof, air-cooled storage facilities.

But best news for the farmer was the new government's purchase of 4.6 million acres from feudal landlords. When the land was sold at lowered interest rates, some 3,000,000 long-exploited tenant farmers became land owners for the first time in their lives. Farmer-controlled cooperatives and democratically-elected land commissions dealt a final death blow to the old tenancy system.

Because her average farm is only 2.5 acres in size, Japan has had to harvest the sea. At the end of the war, however, her fishing industry, world's largest, suffered critical shortages of petroleum, fishing nets and ropes, as well as large boats. SCAP's rush-aid program, however, restored the industry to pre-war levels by 1948.

In the years before the war, Nipponese fishermen hauled an average of 9,300,000 ship-pounds of fish aboard their vessels. Almost 1,500,000,000 pounds, however, were caught in areas now controlled by Russia. A recent decrease in sardine and herring runs works still another hardship on the one million Japanese exploiting the deep.

One solution seems to be in increasing the yield in the authorized fishing area. SCAP-directed whaling expeditions have boosted the productive yield per blue whale from 18 to 48 tons. Another is to give the fishermen more incentive. A step toward this has been the revision of feudalistic laws governing the industry and the formation of free cooperatives.

Japan's biggest hope for topping prewar production lies in the removal of restrictions on the SCAP-authorized fishing area shown above. In September, 1949, the area was extended east to the international date line (left), indicating that the Japanese have at last corrected those abuses which led neighboring nations to cry "Pirate!"

'Second Plate' Roland's Rise And Fall

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK—(AP)—Once upon a time there was a poor but honest young Bowery derelict known as "second plate" Roland.
He got his nickname because whenever he went into a restaurant he was never the first to eat off a plate. He waited until the fellow who had bought the meal was through. Roland then ate what was left.
The other derelicts would have nothing to do with Roland. He was too seedy. He looked like a scrawny alley cat with five-o'clock shadow.
One night Roland was hurled out of a restaurant and landed at the feet of a group of slumming young Park Avenue intellectuals.
"Isn't it cute?" said one. "Let's take it along with us—just for laughs."
The next thing Roland knew he was at a literary cocktail party. He moved up to a man. The man looked at Roland, put down his drink and moved away. Roland lapped up the unfinished drink. He moved up to another man. Same thing. Before long Roland was really rolling.
A group had gathered around the distinguished guest of the evening. Roland pushed up to the great man and said:
"You're repulsive. Thassa lotta hokum you're talking, too. Boy, are you repulsive!"
The great man hurried over to the alarmed hostess. But instead of complaining, he said:
"Who is that brilliant young genius? He cuts through the shabby pretense of our time like a scythe."
The word ran around the room from lip to lip: "The odd young man is a genius. He must be. The big man says so."
So Roland became the rage of the literary cocktail circuit. No party was a success without him. And all Roland did was trail other guests, lap up any drink they put down, and tell everybody he bumped into: "You're repulsive."
There was no doubt he was a real genius, the best one of the season. Everybody agreed.
Roland was down on the Bowery one day bragging about his triumphs. An old tramp told him:
"Why don't you wise up, Roland? If you started buttering up those high-brow buddies instead of insulting them, they might make you a millionaire."
Roland thought that over.
"Why not?" he said. "Why should genius always be second at the plate?"
Taught Self to Read
So Roland launched a quick self-improvement program. He went to the library and taught himself how to read. Then he borrowed some money and bought a new suit, a toothbrush, a turkish bath, a haircut and a shave.
When Roland strode into his next cocktail party a murmur ran through the crowd. Instead of waiting for a guest to put down his unfinished buffet plate, Roland picked up a clean plate himself and waited politely in line.
"What is wrong with Roland?" everyone asked. He finished, wiped his lips daintily with his napkin. He strolled over and ordered a fresh double scotch and soda. Instead of gulping it, he toyed with it masterfully—and put it down half-empty.
Smiling, he walked over to a group in the middle of the room. The same big man was holding the floor again. Roland litkned, nodded thoughtfully and then said:
"Excuse me, friend, I couldn't help overhearing your remarks. And I couldn't agree with you more."
Everybody just stood there open-mouthed. What had happened to Roland?
"You don't think I'm repulsive?" asked the big man uneasily.
"What a shocking thing to suggest—even in jest," murmured Roland.
The big man looked thoughtfully at Roland. Then he walked over and whispered to the hostess. A moment later two butlers appeared, grabbed Roland and threw him out the front door.
"How did the idea ever get around that that bum was a genius?" the big man said. "Now, as I was saying—"
Well, that ended Roland. He had to go back to the Bowery, and soon he was as frowzy as ever. He never could understand the cause of his downfall.
The moral: When you've got a good specialty, don't change. Any genius ought to know that!

More Atomic Tests Ahead

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—A new series of atomic tests will get under way soon in Nevada, and the resultant radiation may be detected in other parts of the country.
The atomic energy commission in announcing this today emphasized, however, that the radiation will be only slightly above normal and far below amounts that could be harmful to human, animal or crop life.
The new tests will be carried out with the usual secrecy precautions, but the commission said it hopes to stage a later test in Nevada or be viewed by press, radio and other reporters as well as by representatives of civil defense agencies.
The announcement did not give any dates.

Might Leave the Mint Penniless

DENVER, Aug. 29—(AP)—Not a penny in the mint.

That's the grim prospect if the strike in the copper industry is prolonged.

A spokesman for the Denver mint says there is only a small supply of copper on hand and if the strike in the non-ferrous metal industry runs through September the mint will be penniless.

Mint officials suggest the wartime zinc coins are a possibility or coins made from reclaimed copper.

Even before the strike began yesterday, the Denver mint was working overtime to meet the increasing demand for the copper coins. It used up more than a carload of copper a week.

Conscientious Objectors be Out

TOLEDO, Aug. 29—(AP)—Two Toledo brothers who have worked a combined total of 45 years for the New York central system here face dismissal from their jobs because they are conscientious to union membership.

Their religious beliefs, they contend, prevent them from joining the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, as required by a union shop agreement between the NYC and the railway union.

One of the men, Cornelius H. Delamotte, a holster with 22 years of service, already has received notice his employment will end Sept. 8, a similar notice is expected to be sent to his brother.

Charles, with 23 years of service, when he returns from vacation.

Both men are members of a religious group which carries no public label, has no set creed and no ministers. It has been referred to as the Plymouth Brethren.

LOOK—AND THEN DUCK!—You're looking down the nose of the Navy's 5½-ton, 48-foot Martin Viking rocket—a stratosphere cruiser known to have soared to heights of 135 miles at top speed of 4100 miles an hour. The view, taken at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., was made from the framework of the structure used to prepare the rocket for firing.

Keep Pledge As to Bride of River Nile

By Ed Pollak
CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Then came the day when the river Nile received a bride.
There was much rejoicing on that sunny August afternoon, as the sandalwood boats glided down the Nile.
Colorful crowds lined the banks of the mighty river, and shouted their excitement. For they were to attend the biggest wedding ceremony of the year.
Aboard the boats, pulled by by hundreds of oars, were government officials and priests. They chanted hymns of thanks to the gods of eternal Egypt.
The bride, surrounded by a group of girls, stood under a multi-colored tent on the deck of the first boat. But her attitude reflected none of the gladness of the crowds. There was terror in her eyes and in the eyes of the girls huddled about her.
When it reached mid-stream, the priest, performing the wedding ceremony, stepped to the stern of the vessel, he recited:
"Greetings to you, Hapi, (god of the Nile) which surges from this land and arrives to give Egypt life x x x"
Then the grand priest gave a terse order. Soldiers seized the bride and flung her to her bridegroom—the Nile. Then they seized the screaming bridesmaids and threw them overboard.
A roar rose from the crowd. The Nile had received his bride. He would be generous to the Egyptians and irrigate their fields.
This happened several thousand years ago. The barbarous custom of human sacrifice was banned long ago, but for many years afterward superstitious peasants continued to throw dolls into the Nile each year.
Tomorrow the Egyptians will once again observe the traditional day. There will be roaring cannon, fireworks displays and general rejoicing.
The government-owned ship "Akaba" festooned with bunting, will sail out into the river and the president of the Moslem court will measure the depth of the river. If it is more than 16 fathoms (96 feet), he will announce: "The Nile has kept his pledge."

Hog House Jinx
DES MOINES.—(AP)—A small 16 by 23-foot hog shed on the Bob Florine farm has given him nothing but trouble. In March, 1950, the shed was blown over in a windstorm. In trying to right the structure, Florine was pinned under it when it toppled over.
He suffered a fractured pelvis and other injuries that put him in bed for more than four months. Recently a bolt of lightning

Aid of $50,000,000 For Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France have agreed to provide $50,000,000 for military and economic aid to Yugoslavia to support Marshal Tito's "contribution to the security of the free world."
The economic cooperation administration, in announcing this Tuesday, disclosed it already has allocated $29,800,000 as an initial installment to help the Yugoslavs buy cotton, coke and steel.
Britain shortly will announce, ECA said, its decision to make available $11,500,000 to help bolster Yugoslavia's economy.
The French government is also expected to announce its contribution in the near future. Informal officials said the initial French installment would be around $5,000,000 or $6,000,000,000.
The aid will be furnished in the next six months.
The United States has given or loaned Yugoslavia a total of $150,000,000 for military and economic supplies since Marshal Tito's Communist regime broke with Moscow.
"The New United States allotment," the ECA said, "will help Yugoslavia overcome shortages of raw materials and other supplies vital to her economic strength and the support of her military defense effort."
The announcement of the new three-power aid program comes only two days after President Truman's foreign policy advisor, W. Averell Harriman, conferred with Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.
Harriman said afterward he talked over with Tito means of shoring up Yugoslavia's military and economic strength to help it withstand any possible aggression by Russia or its Balkan satellites.
The ECA said the decision to provide new aid was made in London several months ago after lengthy conferences by American, British and French officials.
"These three-nation aid program is designed to support the Yugoslav economy in its contribution to the security of the free world and the meeting and strengthening of the standard of living of the Yugoslav people," the ECA said.
The $29,800,000 pledged by the United States comes from funds transferred by President Truman from the foreign arms aid program approved last year by Congress.
Of the $150,000,000 previously allotted to Yugoslavia, $95,000,000 was in the form of outright grants for food and raw materials. The remaining $55,000,000 came from the government's export-import bank in three loans.

MASTITIS

"The most common of all diseases in dairy cattle." It is caused by Staphylococci or Streptococci or a mixed infection of these strains of bacteria.

Please understand this—the disease cannot be "cured" in the same sense that you can be "cured" of smallpox never to have the same disease again. The germs that cause mastitis are most always present around the opening of the teat canal of cows... then inflammation from any source such as a bruise or injury allows the germs to enter into the tissue of the udder and cause congestion and swelling which can be recognized as mastitis. From this you can see that the heaviest milk producers will be the most apt to have the disease since their chances of injury to the udder are greater.

Good dairy practices are necessary in prevention. Such as properly designed barns with adequate ventilation, good, dry bedding, no curbs to cause injury, etc. Also good sanitation in milking equipment.

Treatment of mastitis is highly successful with the new anti-biotics such as Penicillin, Aureomycin and the combination of Penicillin with Streptomycin. Length of treatment or the number of times to use either of these preparations must vary according to the virulence of the invading organisms.

We are always ready to help you with your particular problems.

Browns To Bring-Up Sedalia's Bud Thomas

After a wait of many long years, Sedalia baseball fans can finally boast of a home town big leaguer in John (Buddy) Thomas. The St. Louis Browns announced Tuesday the purchase of the 22-year-old Thomas, who has been playing with the Dayton, Ohio club in the Central League, class A.

"Buddy" is scheduled to join the Browns in Cleveland Friday. With the Dayton team he batted .292 and blasted 38 doubles. He bats right-handed.

Back in 1940 Thomas first donned a baseball uniform as batboy for the old Sedalia Merchants, for whom his dad, John Thomas, Sr., hurled.

In 1943 he nailed-down a starting berth with the Junior American Legion Post 16 nine as shortstop. He played that position with the team three years and in 1945 he led the Post 16 club to second place in the State Junior Legion tourney. At the end of the tournament he was selected as All-American shortstop and played on the West squad in the Esquire game held at the Polo Grounds in New York that August.

Upon graduating from Smith-Cotton high school in the spring of 1945 he signed with the Browns. He was sent to Belleville, Ill. Stags and remained there during that season. The next season he divided play between the Class "A" Elmira, N. Y. club of the Eastern League and Globe-Miami of the Arizona-Texas League.

A last minute switch back in spring training on the part of the Dayton Indian manager, Jim Crandall, enabled Buddy to make the Class "A" Dayton club and give him his coming chance with the Browns. The Dayton Journal-Herald claimed that switch was the best move Dayton made all year, and certainly the luckiest for Thomas.

According to the Dayton newspaper, "He has made every play required of a Class 'A' shortstop. Now he many backers in Sedalia can only hope he makes all required plays of a major leaguer."

Married and a father, Buddy resides in Sedalia during the winter months and works at Jack's clothing store.

Telegram From Mayor
Mayor Herb Studer sent the following telegram to John (Bud) Thomas, young Sedalia ball player who has been purchased by the St. Louis Browns:

"John (Bud) Thomas, Sportsman's Park, Care of St. Louis Browns, 'Congratulations on being called to the American League. All of Sedalia is proud of you. Regards, Mayor Herb E. Studer.'"

No-Hitter in a Semi-pro Game
WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 29.—(P)—Mike Elzyka, a former minor league hurler, pitched a no-hit no-run game in the National Semipro Baseball Tournament last night.

It was the second nine-inning no-hitter in the 17-year-old history of the tournament.

Elzyka, pitching for the Sinton, Tex., Oilers, blanked the Camp Hickitt, Va., 43rd Division team 5-0. He allowed only two walks and one batter go on through an error.

The victory moved Sinton into the fourth round undefeated. Elzyka, a righthander who formerly pitched for Wichita in the Western League, is the property of the St. Louis Browns.

The only previous nine-inning no-hitter in the meet was pitched by Pat Hubert, also of the Sinton Oilers, in 1950.

In other games last night, the Providence, R. I., Athletic Club trampled Thomasville, Ala., invaders, 9-0, and Herrill, Wis., beat Ipswich, Mass., 9-4.

Providence runs into the Fort Wayne, Ind., Capeharts, the defending champions, in the feature game of tonight's three-game ward.

The schedule (times central standard):
6-9—Thomasville, Ala., vs. Bellingham, Wash., (third round, loser eliminated).
8-Fort Wayne vs. Providence (third round).
10-Honolulu, Hawaii, Marines vs. Garksdale Field, La. (third round, loser eliminated).

Blair Qualifies For National
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—(P)—Clancy Miller of Atchison, Kas., Glenn Oatman of Kansas City, and Jim Blair, III, Jefferson City, Mo., qualified here yesterday for the National Amateur Golf tournament.

Oatman will be making his ninth trip and Miller his sixth to the national tourney, which will be held this time at Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 10-15. It will be young Blair's first crack at the national title.

Miller led the field of 19 entries in the qualifying round with a three-over-par 143. Oatman was next at 144.

Blair tied with Bob Willis, Kansas City, and James Vickers, Wichita, at 145 in 36 holes but outlasted them in a playoff. Willis dropped out on the first extra hole and Blair beat Vickers on the third by sinking a 25-foot putt for a birdie 2.

8 THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Wed., Aug. 29, 1951

Junior Legion to Play Lebanon

The Post 16 Junior Legion will resume its baseball schedule Thursday night by journeying to Lebanon, Mo., to meet the Lebanon Junior Legion team.

The Post 16 team has won two previous games from the Lebanon team, both games being well played by both teams. In the first game the Post 16 won by the score of 6 to 2 the second game ended 12 to 3 in favor of the Post 16 team.

All players are requested to meet at Smith Cotton high school at 5 p.m.

Manager Barr has not selected his starting line-up, but "Skip" Schulz, Billy Arnold and Jim Fall will all be ready for mound duty.

Jr. Legion to Play Ionia at Cole Camp

Ageless Oscar Brockman, 43-year-old veteran of the diamond, will toe the rubber Sunday afternoon when Ionia will clash with the Sedalia Junior Legion at Cole Camp. Ionia will be seeking its first victory over Sedalia in two years.

"Oscar doesn't have the blazing fast ball of some pitchers, but those who have batted him in the past know he can thread a needle with his curve ball at 60 feet and six inches," John "Red" Knoop, manager of the Ionia team declared.

"Oscar has been found on the winning side of several teams in his baseball career," Knoop declared.

Cole Camp, which was formerly one of the good baseball towns of central Missouri, has practically been on the shelf for nearly a decade. Back in the 20s and 30s it was one of the best baseball towns in central Missouri and teams begged to be scheduled there.

Cole Camp fans probably won't see a heavy hitting aggregation as the old Cole Camp Cardinals, with such sluggers as Lut Kreisel, Clarence Buerke and Harold Junge, although Bahrenburg, Knoop and "Ding" Swisher are capable of giving the ball the ol' 4-base ride when they connect. In addition Leonard Heisterberg, who hits Sedalia pitchers as though he owns them, will be back in the lineup to bolster the hitting attack of the Ionians.

This will be the first of a two-game series, the second game to be played September 9th.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(P)—George Halas, the Chicago Bears boss, is partner in a turkey farm in Arkansas. That four of his players come from that state is besides the point; George never had a team that was a "turkey."

Henry Thresher, who won two national indoor prep school sprint titles for Mercersburg (Pa.) academy, is a polo patient at the Sister Kenny institute in Jersey City. He hopes to recover from the mild attack in time to enter Yale this fall and still has his eyes on the 1952 olympics at Helsinki.

During the recent little league world series at Williamsport, Pa., Billy Hammer, catcher for the Austin, Tex., team, had to call time out because his bubble gum had busted all over his mask.

Should he have been penalized for "delay of game?"

The Old Daze
Mort Berry's Penn football brochure tells of the 1904 game against Franklin and Marshall in which William N. Morice, a Penn coach, also was umpire. During the contest, Morice became so excited that he forgot his official duties and spent a full minute lecturing a Penn player for making a high tackle and demonstrating how it should be done.

When the F. & M. captain protested, Morice stepped off a five-yard penalty against himself for coaching.

Shorts and Shells
Uncle Miltie, the boss, will sponsor a bowling team this winter. J. J. Collando's racer is listed below as sponsor of a team in the Little Perry, N. J., mixed league.

Iowa State's football reserves are listed for two games before the varsity opener against Wayne U. on Sept. 22. Wonder how many of the lads will be promoted to the varsity later?

Cornell's footballers, who were first to use the new ring cleats last fall, will experiment with a new, wider type of headgear this season. It's designed to prevent "shock," so coach Lefty James had better be wearing one if his team loses a game.

Nastiest Crack Dept.: When Dixie Walker was under suspension from the sixth-place Atlanta Crackers, a fan asked: "Why would a guy want to be reinstated to manage that ball club?"

And a Midlands sports follower, hearing that Kansas U. was looking for a new chancellor, opined that Clyde Lovellette, the tall basketballer, had turned down the job.

End of the Line

In the first three games this fall, Georgia Tech's pass-defenders will have to cope with Fred Benner (SMU), Haywood Sullivan (Florida) and Babe Parilli (Kentucky), each of whom accounted for over 1,000 yards passing last year.

Charley Pablonski, Michigan State catcher, was a member of the ROTC pistol team which won the camp. Gordon, Ga., championship this summer. Remember that, boys, when you try to steal on him.

For the records: Pioneer league publicist dug up the fact that Ken Kimball of Idaho Falls was the 16th minor leaguer to pitch a perfect game.

Jim Holder, Spokane Indian pitcher, can claim an injury record of some sort. He was carrying a souvenir Indian arrowhead in his rear pocket when he was down for a rest after warming up.

The doc claimed he was the first patient treated for arrow wounds since the city of Spokane was founded.

Lanier Holds Phils Scoreless

Brooklyn Ups Its Lead by Defeat Of Cincinnati

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

Is this a pitchers' year or does Ted Williams know something when he insists the ball is dead?

Look what happened yesterday. Early Wynn protected Cleveland's one-game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League by besting Philadelphia's Sam Zoldak in a 1-0 hurling duel. A home run by Bob Kennedy settled the issue.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to six games as rookie Clem Labine outpitched Cincinnati's Howie Fox, 3-1, while Pittsburgh's Howie Pollet blanked Sheldon Jones and the runner-up New York Giants, 2-0, to end their 16-game winning streak.

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out Bubba Church and the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-0, and Omar Lown of the Chicago Cubs whitewashed Chet Nichols and the Boston Braves, 1-0.

The highest run total was made by the Yankees, who defeated the St. Louis Browns, 7-5 in 10 innings and they needed 13 walks by Tommy Byrne. The Detroit Tigers nipped the third place Boston Red Sox 5-4. Chicago's White Sox took a 4-3 decision from Washington in 10 innings.

Not one of the 16 teams got as many as 10 hits.

Altogether 79 shutouts have been hurled this far in the National to only 81 all last year. The American is only one short of last year's entire shutout output of 62.

A brilliant pitching exhibition by Pollet ended the Giant's 16-game winning streak, longest in the National League since 1935. It took two unearned runs, however, to cool off the New Yorkers.

Pollet struck out four, walked none and retired 17 men in succession. He gave up six hits, three of them to Bobby Thomson.

Not since the Cubs won 21 in a row in '35 has a National League team racked up as many straight as the Giants. Baseball's modern record is 26 in a row, set by the Giants in 1916.

Gavilan Rated As Favorite

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(P)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, confident and at the peak of his form, was rated a hefty 13 to 5 favorite to whip Billy Graham of New York in their 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although he lost one split decision to Graham and won the same way in the return, the sleek, flashy Cuban has been made the big choice on the strength of his recent form.

The 25-year-old Gavilan is riding a ten-fight win streak which began with his revenge victory over Graham on Nov. 17, 1950. The slick boxing New Yorker had edged the colorful Cuban nine months before. But while Gavilan has been busy fighting himself into top condition, Graham has been sitting on the sidelines waiting for his title shot. Once a very active campaigner—he's had 103 pro fights—Billy has had only one tuneup this year. He beat Billy Jenkins at North Adams, Mass., on Aug. 9.

This will be Gavilan's first title defense since he won the crown by trouncing Johnny Brandon in the Garden on May 18. A crowd of around 9,000 is expected to pay around $40,000 at a $12 tip.

The gross gate undoubtedly will be smaller than the $50,000 fee for the radio and television rights. CBS will network both the broadcast and the telecast. The fight will start at 8 p.m. (CST).

Under their 32½-27½ split, Gavilan will receive about $24,000. Graham figures to collect $20,000.

Blaik Starts Terrific Task Of Rebuilding

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(P)—The grim task of putting together an army football team to replace the powerhouse wiped out by the cribbing scandal starts today.

Only two men remain from last year's varsity—John Krobock of Hazleton, Pa., and Ed Weaver of Kingston, N. Y., junior ends. The cribbing dismissals plus some academic failures wiped out the squad.

"What we are going to have is purely a mystery," said coach Earl (Red) Blaik. "We are not even thinking in terms of winning and losing. We are only thinking of how we can field a team."

Blaik has already talked to his hopefuls and doled out uniforms. There are 35 on the present varsity squad and 17 on the junior varsity, a total of 52. Last year 90 stalwarts turned out to open the season. Army normally carries 55 men on its "A" or varsity squad, and takes 44 on trips.

Out of this slender squad that reports tomorrow for opening practice Blaik must fashion a team to state off such powers as Northwestern, Southern California, Pennsylvania, and Navy.

He has a 152-pound fullback, William K. Haff of New York, who looks good despite his weight handicap; a couple of other good hands in Tom Bell of New York and John Wing of Dayton, Ky.; Krobock and Weaver at ends; and Edwin Shain of Iowa City, Iowa, who can play both center and quarterback.

To make the task even tougher, last year's army plebe squad was below par, and while this year's plebes are eligible by Eastern college rules to play, the army probably will not allow it.

"The situation is unheard of in college football," said Blaik. "All we can do is make a great effort to do the best possible job."

One of the coach's big problems will be to hold down the emotional tone of his own. Because of the cribbing dismissals, Blaik will

Here's What Inflation Is Doing to Your Life

Survey of Nation Shows Living Standards Hurt

COOL BUYERS have left the market overstocked with cars, furniture and other household goods, forced dealers to try stunts like this public auction of TV sets in New York.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the first of two dispatches that present the real picture of what inflation is doing today to your pocketbook, your savings, your living standards. It's not drawn by long-haired economic experts, but by ordinary Americans all over the land, surveyed by NEA reporters in major cities from coast to coast.

NEA Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The question was: "Has inflation caused you to lower your standard of living?"

An Atlanta postman replied: "Yes. Not only have luxuries been looped off, but I'm getting along with old clothing and have had to sell the car."

A pharmacist in the same city: "I've had to cut down on everything, including baby food, which I can buy at reduced prices."

A Dallas policeman: "My standard of living is kind of shaky."

A fireman in Cleveland: "Yes, considerably. For example, it's cut out just about all of our entertainment. We used to go out occasionally, but can't any more. We don't entertain at home any more. We've been losing ground since 1939."

But a Chicago businessman said: "No, it has caused an increase."

And a San Francisco housewife responded with: "It will remain just about the same."

The question was one of half a dozen put to housewives, businessmen, factory workers, teachers, cab drivers, public service employees, widows and pensioners in a sweeping NEA inflation survey covering major U. S. cities from coast to coast.

NEA's reporters asked people about their living standards, their savings, the effect of taxes on their living habits, what they are or are not buying in the way of food, clothing, automobiles, household furnishings, and why.

The replies drawn from ordinary Americans all over the land contain no evidence that inflation has yet gnawed fatally into the nation's economy. But neither do they offer cheering news for business, for Congress, or the Administration.

This dispatch will deal largely with the inquiries about savings, taxes and living standards. A second will scan the reports on people's current buying habits.

About four out of every seven who answered the standard of living question said they were indeed worse off than they had been before. And of those who did not so complain, many indicated they were just managing to hold their own because pay increases had matched price boosts.

In the New York City area, the survey learned that people generally felt that, were it not for inflation, they would be enjoying a much better standard of living, since in many cases salaries haven't kept pace with price increases.

In every city the survey touched,

Puts in Word for Dad

David Lee Poston, 2, carries a sign in behalf of his dad, Sgt. Henry Poston, who is serving in Korea, as 20 wives, mothers and their children picketed the National Guard armory at Springfield, Mo., Aug. 27 to attract attention to demands that their men, members of the 106th Ordnance company now stationed at Pusan, Korea, be released on the same basis as reservists. (AP Photo) ed, the answers to all questions queried felt he would be hurt by the higher taxes now shaping up in Congress. Apparently only the uncertain size of the added tax bite may have kept a lot of others from voicing the same view.

Two of every three persons queried felt he would be hurt by the higher taxes now shaping up in Congress. Apparently only the uncertain size of the added tax bite may have kept a lot of others from voicing the same view.

Four times as many people say their savings today are smaller as say they have grown since 1950. And for every three who say they're smaller, two note they've just barely been able to hold their reserves about the same.

A Chicago mechanic declared: "I'm just living from week to week. I can't save anything."

A St. Louis accountant: "Savings have gone as usual, but I find that increasingly I have had to borrow back from them."

A Los Angeles movie studio publicity man answered with a brief, petulant query of his own: "Savings?"

Aside, however, from the relative handful, who said their savings were bigger, nobody sounded particularly happy about the state of his reserves. Many who said they were still on even keel spoke as if they couldn't prevent a drop in savings much longer.

The prospect of higher taxes this fall further clouds the picture for people who have seen their spending leeway steadily diminish in the months just passed.

"Yes, more taxes will hurt," observed a Cleveland bus driver. "I guess the new income taxes will more than wipe out the last raise we got."

A low income office worker in Chicago said simply: "I'll buy less."

A San Francisco postman had no doubts: "Higher taxes will naturally modify my buying habits."

New Yorkers were less sure of the outlook. Summarizing their responses to the tax question, a reporter said:

"Most people do not know how much they will have to pay under the new tax law, so they can't answer accurately whether or not they'll be affected."

But in Atlanta, two people living on fixed incomes—this group is usually hardest hit by inflation and rising taxes—said higher levies probably wouldn't bother them much. A barber in the same city held the same view.

Yet the optimists on taxes were definitely a minority. And the overall impact of the survey suggested that the U. S. economy is trading close to the line where higher taxes and a few more price increases might inflict serious economic pain on most consumers.

WD TRACTOR 3-Bottom Mounted Plow

Fall plowing gives the WD and its new 3-bottom plow a chance to show what they can do. Let us prove to you that the WD will do the work of a much heavier tractor and that the new square-built plow is built to take it.

Two Allis-Chalmers features:

1. HYDRAULIC TRACTION BOOSTER automatically puts extra weight on the WD rear wheels as the drawbar load increases. Takes off the extra weight as soon as you pass the tough spot.

2. THE PLOW IS FREE-SWINGING. It follows contours and is free to dodge rocks. Short-coupled hitch gives quick penetration at the ends and mounts the plow bottoms close to the rear wheels for uniform depth control.

Let us prove it in your own fields.

Ionia School to Have 35 Pupils

The Ionia school district lies in the northern part of Benton and the southern part of Pettis counties. It is a two room school building. For the past five years they have only used one room, employing one teacher. Mrs. John Canoy has taught the past two years and will again teach the term of 1951-52.

There will be 32 pupils enrolled. During the summer the school room has been redecorated. Last year a hot lunch program was sponsored by the P.T.A., the mothers took turns preparing the food. This year they are planning a more complete program with an employed cook.

High school students attend the

Japanese Treaty: A Step Toward Peace

Behind San Francisco Meeting Is Story of a Tough 18-Month Job by Dulles

DULLES IN JAPAN: As background for the making of a peace treaty, John Foster Dulles talked with Japanese in many walks of life, including Premier Shigeru Yoshida (left).

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—No body knows the inside story of how the Japanese peace treaty was put together better than U.S. Ambassador John Foster Dulles, who did the job.

At San Francisco signing ceremonies starting Sept. 4, he heads the American delegation. It will be his job to present the treaty, explain the American philosophy of a just peace for Japan, and answer questions.

Dulles did much of the actual drafting. He bargained for its provisions with the Japanese and with high officials of every other government that will sign it—and some that won't. He planned every move to win its acceptance.

For nearly 18 months, Dulles has devoted all his energies to this project. He has brought the many diverse opinions into agreement. He had President Truman's full backing. But he also had the full support of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The U.S. State and Defense departments have worked together under Dulles' guidance. He has kept Republicans and Democrats in Congress fully informed and consulted.

On the night that President Truman dismissed MacArthur, Dean Acheson summoned Dulles to a midnight conference at his home. The Secretary of State came quickly to the point. Dulles must fly at once to Tokyo. The Japanese must be assured without delay that the change in command would not alter U.S. policies and peace proposals.

Dulles, in a master diplomatic stroke, then went to Sen. Robert A. Taft and other Republican congressional leaders and got their approval of the trip to reassure Japan. This was forthcoming without delay.

And so the Japanese treaty is the result of genuine bi-partisan foreign policy. There were three years of fumbling, however, before Dulles took hold of treaty negotiations in April, 1950. MacArthur first raised the subject in a May, 1947, talk before the foreign press correspondents in Tokyo. His statement that Japan was ready then for a peace treaty caught Washington completely off guard.

The State department invited the 10 other countries on the Far Eastern commission to a meeting three months later to draft a treaty. It was proposed that treaty provisions be adopted by two-thirds majority vote. Eight of those accepted the invitation.

Nationalist China wanted to stipulate that the two-thirds majority must include the votes of the four major powers—America, Britain, China and Russia. This would have given Russia a veto.

Chiang Kai-shek's government apparently didn't wish to endanger the Russo-Chinese treaty, concluded under the Yalta agreement. In this Russia recognized the Nationalists as the only government in China.

Russia declined the invitation on the grounds that a Japanese peace treaty could be drafted only by the Big Four Foreign Ministers. The result was that the conference was never held.

For two years nothing much was done. U.S. State department and British Foreign Office experts tried drafting ponderous treaties. MacArthur turned them all down, insisting that the first thing to do was get agreement on a simple set of principles.

In the end it was done that way after Dulles agreed to take the job. Dulles drew up a set of seven principles. This statement, on a single sheet of paper, declared that any nation that had been at war with Japan could make peace. It proposed admitting Japan to the United Nations. It covered the basis for territorial, security, political and commercial provisions. It outlined procedures for settling future claims and disputes. That was all.

Dulles' next job was to sell this outline to as many people as possible. He went to Japan with John M. Allison, the State department Japanese expert, and Col. C. Stanton Babcock, who had been MacArthur's staff officer on peace treaty affairs. These two men have been the principal assistants to Dulles throughout preparation of the treaty.

MacArthur gave his enthusiastic endorsement to the seven-point outline. Dulles talked with leaders from all Japanese political parties and many walks of life—missionaries, Rotarians, Kiwanians, women's organizations.

He was in Japan when the Korean war broke out. The Russians accused him of starting the war. Dulles saw the North Korean aggression as really a blow aimed at Japan by Russia. That made him all the more determined that a peace treaty with Japan was necessary.

On his return to the U.S. Dulles went to the United Nations in New York to sell his idea of a Japanese peace to the 15 nations Russia.

Reduce Forces in Custodial Staffs

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—A reduction of 222 in the custodial staffs of federal buildings in a seven-state area was announced Tuesday. About 800 are now emergency here Monday.

W. A. Holloway, regional director of the general services administration, said the cut was necessary because of a slash of $12,470,000 in appropriations effective July 1. In this area the cut in appropriations is $864,815 of which $454,000 will be saved by the staff reduction.

Notices were given yesterday, effective September 26. In the other nine areas, Holloway said, the cuts were made last month. They were held up in this area because of floods.

The number dismissed are 65 in three St. Louis buildings, 56 in two Kansas City buildings, 51 in two St. Paul buildings, 19 in three Minneapolis buildings, 12 in two Omaha and one Council Bluffs buildings, and eight in Duluth, seven in Des Moines and four in Aberdeen, S. D. No one is affected in Kansas or North Dakota.

The general services administration is charged with maintenance of federal buildings not used solely as postoffices. Holloway said efforts are being made to place dismissed workers in other government employment.

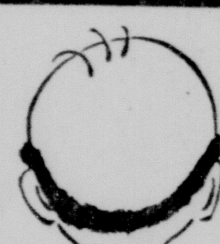

The U. S. Secret Service, Treasury Department, warns that there is more counter-feeding today than at any time in the past 10 years.
